

A Happy Moment -- VAC Music Festival

When it comes to the happiest moment I want to share, I would definitely say it happened at the VAC Music Festival in November 2023.

As an electronic music enthusiast in the bedroom/underground club for so long, VAC is as happy and unforgettable as a dream, a non reality that escapes daily life in both physical and spiritual senses.

At the live music performance, I met Au5, and Dabin, my favorite artists when I first joined Melodic Music Family five years ago. I also met Madeon and San Holo, whom I still deeply admire today

In order to get in touch with my idol who can only be heard but not seen in my earphones, I wrote a letter early in advance, as well as the bracelet I personally made for my idol - MitiS.

Rainy nights cannot quench our passion, and all the unbearable things seem insignificant when we hear our beloved music and see artists.

After his performance, I bravely rushed to the rest area backstage with a few friends. Every time we explain to the security personnel that we are promoters of electronic music culture, this sense of confidence constantly pushes us forward. As we cross the storms layer by layer, we finally reach our ideal utopia -- There, I met my idol and expressed my excitement and gave him gifts in my poor English. Finally, we hugged and took a photo together. My group photo with him appeared on his Instagram and we had the next conversation via email. The most memorable sentence was "You Love Melodic Dubstep (A genre of Electronic Music), I'm proud of you!"

After waking up from the dream, there is still a sense of unreality that is not fully satisfied. I returned to the school dormitory and watched the videos of the past two days repeatedly. With a complex mood, I returned to my daily studies and mid-term assignments, looking forward to meeting everyone again next year in that dreamy place.

I think not only music lovers can experience this feeling, it's like seeing Messi's jersey (which was called Bisht, maybe you know) with their own eyes, or seeing the passionate Jordan of the past, or the many singers like Junjie Lin, Jacky Cheung, Jay Chou, and so on in the memories of a generation.

When tears welled up in my eyes, holding the hand of someone who resonated with me and shouting, I realized that my emotions had never grown old with me. They only took root in my silent heart and grew strong when I smelled the fragrance of music.

The Neon Phantom, is an electronic music association at Tsinghua University. It's an honor for me to take a photo with several friends from East China Normal University holding two school flags (One Tsinghua, One ECNU). I have also received the school bracelet they want to send to all corners of the world. I hope to have more courage, constantly explore my beloved field, and work with all the people in China who are committed to music development to pursue the predecessors I admire!
